Exceptions—You are not required to file an exemption application within 15 months if the organization:

- ☐ a Is a church, interchurch organization of local units of a church, a convention or association of churches, or an integrated auxiliary of a church (see instructions);

Julia Child Foundation For Gastronomy and the Culinary Arts
c/o Hill & Barlow
One International Place
Boston, MA 02110

EIN: 04-3294783

Form 1023--Part II.1.

The applicant charitable trust (the "charitable trust") is an irrevocable, charitable trust formed under the laws of The Commonwealth of Massachusetts on December 2, 1995. The charitable trust is an organization described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

The charitable trust is a private foundation. The charitable trust will make annual distributions of income and principal to tax-exempt charitable organizations (see Section 1.4 of the charitable trust) selected by the trustees for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, within the meaning of those terms as used in Sections 501(c)(3), 170(c), 2055(a), and 2522(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (see Section 1.5 of the charitable trust). No distributions will be made to individuals.

The charitable trust will initially have no paid employees.

Julia Child has bequeathed in her will all of her literary property to the charitable trust, including, but not limited to, copyrights and all other property rights in any literary, television, film, or video works in which she had a role as author, co-author, editor, contributor, or performer, and all income derived therefrom. Consequently, it is anticipated that, upon the death of Julia Child, property with a substantial (but presently unknown) value will pass to the charitable trust. The charitable trust does not anticipate financial support from any sources other than the above-described bequest, although Julia Child and/or members of her family may make one or more gifts to the charitable trust during their lifetimes. Accordingly, the charitable trust has no present or planned fundraising programs.

Until receipt of the anticipated bequest from Julia Child, it is not anticipated that the trustees of the charitable trust will make annual distributions of income or principal to tax-exempt charitable organizations for charitable purposes as provided in the charitable trust unless Julia Child and/or members of her family make gifts to the charitable trust during their lifetimes.

It is possible that Julia Child, the creator of the charitable trust and a trustee of the charitable trust, will be a substantial contributor to the charitable trust and, therefore, will be a "disqualified person". William A. Truslow, one of the two trustees of the charitable trust, is a member of the law firm of Hill & Barlow, the law firm which represents Julia Child and the charitable trust.

Julia Child, the creator of the charitable trust and a trustee of the charitable trust, will not receive any compensation for serving as a trustee or otherwise. William A. Truslow, the other trustee of the charitable trust, will receive annual compensation for serving as a trustee when the charitable trust is funded. The compensation paid to the trustee(s) will be reasonable and consistent with fiduciary practice in The Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

In addition, William A. Truslow, a trustee, who is a member of the law firm of Hill & Barlow, may (or Hill & Barlow may) perform legal services for the charitable trust in which event he or it, as the case may be, will be paid reasonable compensation.
